WHEREAS, the City Council has already explored ways for DPW to make the stormwater management process more productive. This was accomplished during oversight through City Council Resolution 16-0301R. Specifically, the City Council called for DPW to:

- Escalate the current stormwater-related project development timetable;
- Expand capacity for permitting review and establish deadlines for permit review and processing for stormwater projects that will be utilized by the City in meeting regulatory compliance;
- Establish the following policies on the review and decision-making process for Stormwater Management & Erosion and Sediment Control permits for voluntary (non-regulatory) restoration projects:
  - 30-day maximum for projects under 5,000 square feet/100 cubic yards treatment;
  - 45-day maximum for all other projects;
  - Communicate any 'roadblocks' to advancing these initiatives (i.e., hiring procedures, recruitment, etc.)
- Ensure that revenue collected via Stormwater Enterprise Fund utility fees are identified and tracked online in a simple format that is updated quarterly throughout planning, design, and construction in a way that the general public can review and comprehend.
