UNIVERSAL RESPONSE

Much of what we ask from Pratt is what we already practice with one another. We already treat each other with respect and trust, provide mentorship to those who are less experienced, strive for transparent communication and sincerity, offer care in times of need, and meet each other around our scheduling needs.

Despite constant obstacles the administration has placed in our paths, we continue to build a welcoming and nourishing environment for one another. It's time that Pratt provided us the structure, resources, and support for us to collectively build the workplace we envision.

We're a team...till we're not.
