ANALYSIS

The Inn at Government House, located at 1125 North Calvert Street, has been an iconic building in the rich history of Baltimore. This structure was built in the late 1880's for John S. Gilman, a prominent banker. The Inn was built at a cost of $40,000. Before its completion, Mr. Gilman died and his widow lived in the newly built home for several years. After the Gilman's, the house was owned by several prominent families. After the Gilman's the Painters lived in the home and William Painter was an inventor who invented the bottle cap. Following the Painter family, the house was owned by a Dr. Futcher, who used the Library as his office. Robert Garrett, grandson of the founder of the B & O Railroad, later purchased the Mansion. Mr. Garrett was an Olympic Athlete and Chairperson of an organization known as the Playground Athletic League, serving the children of Baltimore. The P.A.L. donated the Mansion to the City of Baltimore in 1939, to be used as the Department of Public Recreation. In 1969, the City purchased the two adjoining Federal style townhouses and expanded the office space. This property was used as the headquarters for the Department of Recreation and Parks until the early 1980s.

In 1983, Mayor William Donald Schaeffer initiated the restoration of Government House that was completed and open to the public in 1985. Since the completion of the restoration, the inn has served as the Official Guesthouse of the City of Baltimore. The mansion was restored to its original 19th century standards and configured as a historic City-owned and operated inn with 21 rooms. The property is improved with three structures, including a four-story historic residence and two adjoining Federal-style row houses to the south, with parking for 13 vehicles. Many of the antiques displayed throughout the Mansion and the architectural features were manufactured in Baltimore.

At the request of the Mayor's Office, on October 6, 2008, the Inn at Government House was offered for sale and a Request for Proposal (RFP) released to put the property back on the City's tax roles. Therefore, City Council Bill #10-0596 is the required legislation to dispose of the property for redevelopment purposes. Baltimore Development Corporation (BDC) released a Request for Proposals (RFP) for the purchase, lease, or operation of the facility. Since the advertisement of the property, BDC has received an offer from Mount Vernon Mansion LLC, a partnership of Eddie Brown of Brown Capital Management and developer Martin Azola (the "Developer"). This entity proposes to purchase and redevelop the Inn at Government House as a historic 17-room boutique-style bed and breakfast with ancillary restaurant and event space. Once the bill receives Planning Commission and City Council's approval, BDC will seek Board of Estimate approval of the Land Disposition Agreement (LDA).

The City's Space Utilization Committee has declared the Inn at Government House as surplus. Therefore, it is staff's finding that the subject property is surplus and can be sold. Planning is in support of City Council Bill #10-0596 that authorizes the sale and to allow the City to dispose of the historic Inn at Government House for redevelopment purposes.

Staff has notified Midtown Community Benefits District, Mount Vernon-Belvedere Association, Baltimore Development Corporation, Department of Real Estate, and the City Council Representative of this action.
