CLINICAL ACTIVITIES

Clinical Focus

I am a pediatric critical care attending physician in the Johns Hopkins Pediatric Intensive Care Unit (PICU). My clinical roles include co-director of the pediatric point of care ultrasound collaborative, in which I coordinate education and quality assurance programming related to point of care ultrasound, and medical director of the pediatric critical care vascular access service, in which I lead patient care and access initiatives, quality improvement and administrative aspects of vascular access for PICU patients.

Certification

Medical, other state/government licensure

2011-2015	Alabama Board of Medical Examiners, License No. 31837
2011-2015	Alabama Controlled Substance Certificate
2018	Federal Drug Enforcement Administration Controlled Substance Certificate
2018	Maryland Board of Physicians, License No. D85278
2018	Maryland Controlled Substance Certificate M94552

Boards, other specialty certification

2008	USMLE Step I
2010	USMLE Step II CS and CK
2012	USMLE Step III
2014	American Board of Pediatrics, General Pediatrics board certified
2018	American Board of Pediatrics, Pediatric Critical Care Medicine board certified

Clinical (Service) Responsibilities

2018-present Pediatric Critical Care Attending Physician, Johns Hopkins PICU, 8 weeks/year and 22 in-house calls/year

Clinical Productivity

2018-present There are ~2,200 patients between the ages of 1 day – 21 years admitted annually to the Johns Hopkins Hospital PICU. As PICU faculty, I provide 1) oversight and management of medical and surgical patients including post-operative patients, subspecialty patients, trauma and burn patients; 2) consultation, triage and medical direction for pediatric critical care transport; 3) pediatric consultation, direction and airway management in the trauma bay; 4) oversight of pediatric rapid response team activations and medical emergencies throughout the hospital.

Clinical Draw from outside local/regional area

2023-present In conjunction with the Johns Hopkins Break the Cycle of Violence Hospital Violence Intervention Program (HVIP), I provide pediatric medical and youth developmental/behavioral expertise for assault injured patients and their families. I participate in weekly team meetings for the hospital violence intervention program to discuss adult and young adult patient cases and facilitate referrals to primary care providers and community-based organizations, and I lead team meetings as we build a team and processes for a pediatric HVIP expansion which will be one of very few youth-focused HVIPs nationwide.

EDUCATIONAL ACTIVITIES

Educational Focus

My educational focus is on firearm policy, safety, and injury prevention with a particular emphasis on promotion of health equity. I have taught courses relevant to my area of expertise as lecturer and as facilitator/lead at the Johns Hopkins Hospital and at national and international meetings focused on evidence-based gun policy, developing evidence based tools for identification and mitigation of injury risk, and clinical strategies to prevent violence and injury.

With a long-term goal of providing direct legal services to address the needs of patients and their families while also conducting research and advocacy to promote health justice regionally and nationally, I am currently a law student at a premier School of Law, Georgetown University Law Center, where I am pursuing a rigorous education in law and legal scholarship that includes core education on Constitutional Law, Criminal Justice, Civil Procedure, and legal research, as well as a curated curriculum focused on health policy, policymaking, and equity.

RESEARCH ACTIVITIES

Research Focus

I am core faculty in the Center for Gun Violence Solutions, where I lead the Clinical Programs and Practice team. My research focuses on the promotion of health equity through clinical and policy strategies for youth violence prevention. My prior work has been aimed at improving clinician education on and engagement in gun violence and injury prevention. My early career research development was supported by the NIH T32 training program in my institution, providing me with foundational training and opportunities. I have developed multidisciplinary local, regional, and national research teams focused on violence prevention.

Research Program Building / Leadership

2022-present Director, Clinical Programs and Practice Unit; Johns Hopkins Center for Gun Violence Solutions. The CPPU is a multidisciplinary team of clinicians and researchers within the renowned Center for Gun Violence Solutions that is devoted to clinical violence prevention research, education, and evidence-based clinical program development.

2022-present Research Fellow, Center for Innovations in Community Safety; Georgetown University Law Center. CICS is a legal research- and practice-oriented team that uses individual interventions and systems-level change to transform and end overreliance on policing and to mitigate the devastating impacts of racial and ethnic discrimination and economic inequality in the criminal legal system. As a fellow, my research is focused on the impacts of policing on children in the healthcare setting.

SYSTEM INNOVATION AND QUALITY IMPROVEMENT ACTIVITIES

System Innovation Focus

My system innovation and quality improvement focus is on comprehensive review of morbidity and mortality in the pediatric intensive care unit through service as a faculty leader in our M&M committee. I serve as our divisional liaison to the Office of the Chief Medical Examiner, improving communication and information sharing. I also participate in a working group focused on improving hospital policy and medical care of incarcerated or criminal legal system-involved patients.

System Innovation and Quality Improvement efforts within JHMI:

- 2016-2018 Co-investigator; Sepsis Quality Improvement Project (SeQuIP); Johns Hopkins University. Development and implementation of diagnostic decision support tool, refining of blood culture and antibiotic administration practices. Coauthored article OR 7.
- 2022-present Faculty Co-Lead, Pediatric Critical Care Medicine Morbidity and Mortality Committee. Conduct mortality and morbidity event reviews, facilitate multidisciplinary discussion, coordinate with the Office of the Chief Medical Examiner for information sharing.
- 2023-present Committee Member, Custodial and Incarcerated Patients Working Group. Review and revise hospital policies guiding care of custodial patients in partnership with hospital attorneys and clinicians from internal medicine, obstetrics and gynecology, emergency medicine, and pediatrics.

System Innovation and Quality Improvement efforts outside JHMI:

- 2020-2021 Maryland Department of Health, Maternal and Child Health Bureau. Member of the Child Health Task Force focused on prenatal care and asthma care as part of the Statewide Integrated Health Improvement System for Maternal and Child Health.
