A COUNCIL RESOLUTION CONCERNING

1                    Implementing Law Enforcement Assisted Diversion in Baltimore

2                    FOR the purpose of expressing support for an expansion of the Law Enforcement Assisted 3                    Diversion (LEAD) program nationwide and requesting that law enforcement and other
4                    stakeholders appear before the City Council to discuss how the LEAD program could be 5                    implemented in Baltimore, what partnerships and structures need to be put in place to allow 6                    LEAD to succeed, and how to provide it with the necessary human and financial resources.

7                    Recitals

8                    Law Enforcement Assisted Diversion, or LEAD, is a public safety program designed to use 9                    human resources tools to address public order problems that do not respond well to a traditional 10                    prosecution and punishment approach. The LEAD program allows street level police officers to 11                    divert individuals committing low-level crimes, typically minor drug or prostitution offenses,
12                    away from formal arrest and prosecution and instead into an intensively managed social services 13                    program.

14                    Officers can avoid arresting the same people over and over for non-violent addiction driven 15                    offenses, and offenders can be directly connected to social services providers with the ability to 16                    provide drug treatment services, housing, or other interventions that can remove the root causes 17                    of disruptive behavior more effectively than an encounter with the criminal justice system could.

18                    LEAD has proven to be effective in its primary goal of reducing offenses and improving 19                    public order. The nation's longest running LEAD program in Seattle has shown a 58% drop in 20                    recidivism among its participants compared to similar individuals instead processed through the 21                    traditional criminal justice system.

22                    In Seattle, LEAD has also helped to improve relations between the Police Department and 23                    heavily policed communities by positioning the Department as a partner genuinely interested in 24                    improving both public order and the lives of offenders as well as the community, rather than a 25                    punitive external force focused on arrest statistics more than actual problem solving.

Council Bill 15-0254R

1 With improved outcomes for communities, participants, and community-police relations,
2 LEAD is a program worth taking a hard look at for any city. What it is not though is a straight 3 out of the box, one size fits all, solution to every crime and policing problem in every 4 community.

5 In order to succeed the LEAD program requires genuine buy-in and cooperation from a range 6 of stakeholders, including street level police officers, the police command staff, prosecutors,
7 political leaders, service providers, and business and community leaders. It also needs adequate 8 resources to ensure that participants receive timely and targeted interventions without detracting 9 from others' ability to get needed assistance.

10 LEAD has been successful elsewhere, and could potentially work well in Baltimore if 11 properly implemented. That implementation will require a broad effort on the City's behalf.
12 Discussions about its feasibility and how to establish the framework necessary for LEAD to 13 succeed should begin immediately.

14 NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF BALTIMORE, That the 15 Council expresses support for an expansion of the Law Enforcement Assisted Diversion (LEAD) 16 program nationwide and requests that law enforcement and other stakeholders appear before the 17 City Council to discuss how the LEAD program could be implemented in Baltimore, what 18 partnerships and structures need to be put in place to allow LEAD to succeed, and how to 19 provide it with the necessary human and financial resources.

20 AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That a copy of this Resolution be sent to the Mayor, the 21 Police Commissioner, the Health Commissioner, the Baltimore City State's Attorney, the District
22 Public Defender for Baltimore City, the Commissioner of Housing, the Administrative Judge for 23 the Baltimore City District Court, the President and Chief Executive Officer of Behavioral 24 Health System Baltimore, and the Mayor's Legislative Liaison to the City Council.
