City of Baltimore Council Bill           R (Resolution)

Introduced by: President Young and Councilmember Bullock

A Resolution Entitled

A Council Resolution concerning Task Force on Improving Baltimore City's Housing Programs

For the purpose of calling for the creation of a task force to propose revisions to Baltimore City's housing programs which will increase the supply, distribution, and quality of affordable housing across the City, so that we can better meet the needs and demands of current and future residents.

Recitals

In Baltimore City 53% of renters and 40% of homeowners pay more than one-third of their income in housing, putting them at risk for housing instability and even homelessness.

In Baltimore City, on any given night, 3,000 people, including children and their families, are homeless.

In Baltimore City, 25,000 households, more than half with children, are on the waiting list for desperately needed federal housing assistance, where they will wait as much as 10 years. Despite this decade-long expected wait, more than 50,000 additional households applied but were not able to get on the waiting list.

The city's housing problems with respect to the supply, distribution, and quality of affordable housing have been the focus of numerous efforts by the city of Baltimore and there are many programs in place with varying levels of success.

A task force should be established with the duty of studying the results of the City's various housing programs over the last 10 years, while also analyzing current and projected demographics and market demands. In the course of reviewing both the initial goals and new ideas for making more units of quality affordable housing available, proposals will be developed based on a determination by the task force of how best to revise the City's existing programs.

Now, therefore, be it resolved by the City Council of Baltimore, That the Council calls for the creation of a task force to propose revisions to Baltimore City's housing programs which will increase the supply, distribution, and quality of affordable housing across the City, so that we can better meet the needs and demands of current and future residents..
